

CONTRIBUTORS

Sister Prudence Allen, R.S.M., is a member of the Religious Sisters of Mercy of Alma, Michigan; professor in the department of philosophy, St. John Vianney Theological Seminary, Denver, Colorado; and distinguished professor emeritus, Concordia University, Montreal, working in the areas of the philosophy of the person, with emphasis on woman and man, and of the school of personalism. Her two volume work on The Concept of Woman in Western philosophy from 750BC-1500 AD is published by Eerdmans, and she is presently working on the third volume (1500-2000+). She has lectured widely in Canada and the United States, and published in such journals as Communio, Thought, New Blackfriars, American Catholic Philosophical Quarterly, Homelitic and Pastoral Review, Seminary Journal, International Philosophical Quarterly, and Maritain Studies.

Lawrence Dewan, O.P., is professor of philosophy at the Dominican University College, Ottawa, Canada, and a member of the Pontifical Academy of St. Thomas Aquinas, Rome. A native (1932) of North Bay, Ontario, Canada, he studied philosophy at the University of Toronto, the University of Paris, and the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies (PIMS). His teaching career has also included periods at the University of Ottawa, the University of Toronto and PIMS, and the Catholic University of America. He received the Maritain Medal for Scholarly Excellence in 2006 (conferred by the American Maritain Association). In 2007, he gave the Aquinas Lecture at Marquette University; cf. St. Thomas and Form as Something Divine in Things, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, 2007: Marquette University Press [The Aquinas Lecture, no. 71].

Heather McAdam Erb is assistant professor of philosophy at Lock Haven University of Pennsylvania. With degrees from Leuven (Belgium) and the University of Toronto, she has taught philosophy and religious studies at the undergraduate and graduate levels at several universities. In addition to traditional students, she has taught teachers, seminarians, and religious. Her publications focus on the nexus between metaphysics and spirituality in the thought of St.