Contributors

D.T. Asselin, an Assistant Professor of Philosophy at Hillsdale College in Michigan, has written several reviews and scholarly articles on Maritain. He is also the author of the book Human Nature and Eudaimonia in Aristotle.

William J. Boyle is a graduate of the Center for Medieval Studies at the University of Toronto, where he wrote his dissertation on the "Weakness of the Will and Self-Control According to St. Thomas Aquinas" under Fr. Joseph Owens, C.Ss.R. He is currently Associate Professor of Philosophy at St. John's University (Jamaica, NY).

William Bush, Professor of French Literature at the University of Western Ontario, is, perhaps, North America's leading authority on Maritain's friend, the novelist Georges Bernanos, of whose Monsieur Ouine he has done a definitive translation.

Joseph J. Califano is Professor of Philosophy at Saint John's University (Jamaica, NY). He has published articles in The Thomist, the Divus Thomas, and several articles in volumes published by the American Maritain Association. He has presented papers in Tokyo, Berlin, the United States, and Canada which were sponsored by several governments and published by The International Association of Energy Use Management and the International Association of Hydrogen Energy.

Bernard Doering is a Professor of French literature at the University of Notre Dame. He is author of Jacques Maritain and the French Catholic Intellectuals and has published an annotated English translation of the correspondence between Jacques Maritain and Julien Green, A Story of Two Souls. At present he is preparing for publication the correspondence between Maritain and Saul Alinsky.
John M. Dunaway is Professor of French and Great Books at Mercer University in Macon, Georgia. He is author of books on Julien Green, Jacques Maritain, and Simone Weil; his work in progress includes "Christian Presence in Twentieth Century French Fiction," as well as editing the Maritain-Tate correspondence. He is currently serving his second term on the Executive Committee of the American Maritain Association.

Donald A. Gallagher is President of the De Rance Foundation, President Emeritus of the American Maritain Association, and co-author, with his wife Idella, of the definitive Maritain bibliography, The Achievement of Jacques and Raïssa Maritain.

Curtis L. Hancock is currently Associate Professor of Philosophy at Rockhurst College (Kansas City, MO). A former Schmitt Fellow at Loyola University, he is co-author of How Should I Live? Introduction to the Moral Life Through Conversations. His many reviews and articles have appeared in publications such as The Modern Schoolman, The Journal of the History of Philosophy, and Contemporary Philosophy.

John Hellman, a Professor of History at McGill University, Montreal, is the author of books and articles on Simone Weil, Emmanuel Mounier, the French-Catholic culture in the interwar years, and the Introduction to the revised edition of Yves R. Simon's The Road to Vichy 1918-1938.

Deal W. Hudson is Associate Professor of Philosophy at Fordham University (Bronx, NY). He is co-author of Understanding Maritain: Philosopher and Friend. In addition, he has published articles and reviews in the International Philosophical Quarterly, Notes et Documents, Homiletic and Pastoral Review, Cross Currents, the International Journal of the Philosophy of Religion, and is Vice President of the American Maritain Association and a member of the Scientific Council of the Instituto Internazionale Jacques Maritain.

Robert E. Lauder, a Roman Catholic priest of the Diocese of Brooklyn, and an Associate Professor of Philosophy at St. John's University (Jamaica, NY), is the author of seven books—the most recent of which is God, Death, Art and Love: The Philosophical Vision of Ingmar Bergman (Prologue by Liv Ullmann [Mahwah, NJ: Paulist Press, 1990]). Author of a weekly column for the Brooklyn Tablet and the Long Island Catholic,
Father Lauder has had several articles about film appear in the New York Times.

Matthew J. Mancini, currently Visiting Associate Professor of History at Rice University in Houston, Texas, has published articles and reviews in The Journal of Negro History, The Journal of Southern History, Notes et Documents, and is the co-author of Understanding Maritain: Philosopher and Friend. Presently he is preparing a book on Alexis de Tocqueville as part of the Twayne World Author Series.

Ralph McInerny has taught at the University of Notre Dame since 1955 where he is Michael P. Grace Professor of Medieval Studies and Director of the Jacques Maritain Center. His most recent books are Art and Prudence and A First Glance at Thomas Aquinas: A Handbook for Peeping Thomists (University of Notre Dame Press) and Boethius and Aquinas (Catholic University of America Press). He is also the author of many novels, among them the Father Dowling mysteries.

Ralph Nelson is Professor of Political Science at the University of Windsor. He is currently co-translating Jacques Maritain's Neuf Leçons sur les Notions Premières de la Philosophie Morale.

Charles P. O'Donnell received his Ph.D. from Harvard University, writing as his doctoral thesis "The Political Philosophy of Jacques Maritain" (1940). He taught Political Science at De Paul University, and has been Associate Dean of the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University as well as a Fulbright Professor (Zaire). In addition, he has served in the United States Department of State and the United States Foreign Service for two decades. He has, also, edited Symposium on the Church in the Modern World and Yves R. Simon's Freedom and Community.

Peter A. Redpath, Associate Professor of Philosophy, St. John's University (Staten Island, NY), is the author of two books on the thought of St. Thomas Aquinas, plus numerous articles and reviews in scholarly journals, including The New Scholasticism, The Thomist, and Speculum. He is a member of the Executive Committee of the American Maritain Association and the Board of Directors of the Yves R. Simon Institute. He is, also, a member of the Board of Trustees and is Co-Moderator of the Institute for Advanced Philosphic Research (Boulder, Colorado), and has lectured extensively both nationally and internationally.
Robert Royal is Director of Catholic Studies and Vice President for Research at the Ethics and Public Policy Center (Washington, DC). His articles and reviews have appeared in numerous publications, among them The National Review and The Spectator.

James V. Schall, S.J. is currently a Professor of Government at Georgetown University. Formerly he taught at the Gregorian University in Rome, Italy, and at the Department of Government at the University of San Francisco. He is a member of the National Council on the Humanities of the National Endowment for the Humanities, has written numerous books, articles, and reviews for scholarly journals, and writes a monthly column entitled "Sense and Nonsense" for Crisis.

Judith D. Suther is Professor of French at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. Her book Raissa Maritain, Pilgrim, Poet, Exile appeared in 1990 from Fordham University Press. She is now at work on Kay Sage, The Art of Exile, on the American surrealist painter and poet, to appear in 1992 from Rutgers University Press.

John G. Trapani, Jr., an Associate Professor of Philosophy at Walsh College in Canton, Ohio, has written several articles on Maritain for books and scholarly journals, in particular in the area of aesthetics. Recipient of the 1990 Outstanding Educator of the Year at Walsh College, he is also a professional musician conducting a seventeen-piece Big Band.
