

Contributors

WILLIAM BUSH is a professor of French literature at the University of Western Ontario in London, Canada. He is a leading authority on Georges Bernanos and his most recent book is La Relation des Martyres des seize Carmélites de Compiègne (Cerf, 1993).

RAYMOND L. DENNEHY, current president of the American Maritain Association, is professor of philosophy at the University of San Francisco. He is the author of Reason and Dignity and has written widely on ethics and metaphysics.

BERNARD DOERING is a professor of French literature at the University of Notre Dame. He is author of Jacques Maritain and the French Catholic Intellectuals and has published an annotated English translation of the correspondence between Jacques Maritain and Julien Green, A Story of Two Souls.

DESMOND J. FITZGERALD is professor of philosophy at the University of San Francisco and a former research fellow for The Idea of Freedom. He assisted in editing Yves R. Simon's Freedom of Choice (Fordham).

DONALD A. GALLAGHER was president of the De Rance Foundation, president emeritus of the American Maritain Association, and co-author, with his wife Idella, of The Achievement of Jacques and Raïssa Maritain, a comprehensive bibliography.

JOHN HELLMAN is professor of history at McGill University, Montreal, and is the author of books and articles on Simone Weil, Emmanuel Mounier, and the French-Catholic culture in the interwar years. He has written the introduction to the revised edition of Yves R. Simon's The Road to Vichy, 1918–1938.

RABBI LEON KLENICKI is the director of the department of interfaith affairs of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. He is also professor of Jewish theology at Immaculate Conception Seminary, Seton Hall University, New Jersey, and has edited and published several volumes on Jewish religious thought and interreligious dialogue, including (with Eugene Fisher) Pope John Paul II on Jews and Judaism, 1979–1986.

RALPH NELSON teaches in the department of political science at the University of Windsor in Ontario. He has written numerous articles on the moral and political philosophy of Jacques Maritain. He specializes in democratic theory and is co-author of Introduction to Canadian Government and Politics (Holt, Rinehart and Winston) first published in 1972 and now in its sixth edition.

MICHAEL NOVAK is George F. Jewett Scholar in Religion, Philosophy, and Public Policy at the American Enterprise Institute (Washington, D.C.). His most recent book is The Catholic Ethic and the Spirit of Capitalism (Free Press, 1993).

ASTRID O'BRIEN is associate professor of philosophy at Fordham University (Lincoln Center campus) and has published numerous articles on medieval philosophy in addition to a recent volume about Sigrid Undset.

CHARLES P. O'DONNELL received his Ph.D. from Harvard University, writing as his doctoral thesis "The Cultural and Political Philosophy of Jacques Maritain" (1940). He taught political science at De Paul University, and was associate dean of the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University. He edited Symposium on the Church in the Modern World and Yves R. Simon's Freedom and Community. Unhappily, he passed away while the current volume was being prepared.

JOHN M. OESTERREICHER, O.F., a long-time friend of Jacques Maritain and a major figure in the Catholic-Jewish dialogue in the United States, was at the Institute of Judaeo-Christian Studies at Seton Hall University until his death at the age of 87 in the spring of 1993.

PETER A. REDPATH is professor of philosophy at Saint John's University, New York. In addition to lecturing extensively nationally and internationally, he is member of the executive committee of the American Maritain Association and of the board of advisors of the Yves R. Simon Institute.

ROBERT ROYAL is the vice president and Olin Fellow in Religion and Society at the Ethics and Public Policy Center (Washington, D.C.). He is author of 1492 And All That: Political Manipulations of History and co-editor with George Weigel of Building the Free Society: Democracy, Capitalism and Catholic Social Teaching, and with Virgil Nemoianu of Play, Literature, and Religion: Essays in Cultural Intertextuality.

JAMES V. SCHALL, S.J., is a professor in the department of government at Georgetown University. He has taught in the Gregorian University in Rome and at the University of San Francisco. He has written sixteen books, among which are Another Sort of Learning; Unexpected Meditations Late in the XXth Century; Reason, Revelation, and the Foundations of Political Philosophy; and Redeeming the Time.

RAMON SUGRANYES DE FRANCH is professor emeritus of the University of Fribourg (Switzerland) and current president of the Institut International Jacques Maritain (Rome).

JUDITH D. SUTHER is professor of French at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte and is the author of Raïssa Maritain, Pilgrim, Poet, Exile (Fordham University Press, 1990).

LEO R. WARD (d. 1984) headed both the philosophy and English departments during his career at the University of Notre Dame. He published several collections of poetry including Irish Portraits and Other Poems (Fides). He was a life-long Maritain scholar and co-edited with Joseph W. Evans a collection of Maritain's essays on political philosophy, The Social and Political Philosophy of Jacques Maritain.