This illustration shows the chief convolutions and fissures of the cerebrum from above. The two hemispheres are divided by the great longitudinal or median fissure.

(See Text, pp. 45, 567—570).